Family Crest: 'God Guides, We Serve'

Symbolism and Meaning

This family crest is a symbol of unity, compassion, and divine guidance.

The shield is split into two halves, representing the union of two proud heritages: the Bantu people of Africa and the Caribbean lineage. On the left is the Adinkra symbol 'Eban', representing safety, security, and familial love. On the right, a pair of hands cradle a heart, symbolizing the family's deep commitment to humanitarian work and helping others in need.

Above the shield sits a dove with a radiant halo - a powerful emblem of peace, divine inspiration, and the family's belief in God. Flanking the shield are two symbols: the Baobab tree, which stands for African resilience and community, and the Caribbean hummingbird, symbolizing joy, endurance, and freedom.

At the bottom lies the family motto: 'God Guides, We Serve', summarizing the spirit and mission of the family - to serve others faithfully, guided by divine wisdom.
